K-State Research and Extension serves as the front door of Kansas State University, the state's land-grant university. We provide practical education you can trust by helping people, businesses and communities solve problems, develop skills and build a better future.

Through targeted research and extension programs developed specifically for local communities, we focus on solving challenges related to water, health, global food systems, community vitality and developing tomorrow's leaders.

Our statewide network of educators disseminate research-based information related to agriculture, youth development, family life, healthy living, business, economics and much more. We also effectively partner with local, state and federal agencies to help them accomplish their goals.
