I. Preamble

The Division of Extension within K-State Extension within Kansas State University is a community-based education unit serving the state of Kansas — engaging citizens with the research, educational, and technological resources of Kansas State University. K-State Extension provides access to education to serve the public good.

- 1) K-State Extension builds collaborations to provide public goods and services that deliver on the land-grant university commitment to Kansas residents.
- 2) Extension boards and councils, and K-State Extension enter into additional collaborative arrangements that drive significant opportunities for leveraging and pooling resources. Our activities promote efficiency and economic diversity, and result in a fiscally stable system.
- 3) K-State Extension provides a mechanism for individuals to join together to address common concerns and creates an organized, research-based environment in which they can make decisions and act.

Kansas State University provides educational goods and services for the benefit of Kansas residents and communities, available because we work together as a system: K-State Extension. This unique system has the potential to nurture democracy through engaging residents in common aspirations, concerns, and purpose.

II. Introduction

K-State Extension hereinafter referred to as KSE, and the Extension Council or Extension District, hereinafter referred to as local Extension unit, enter into this Memorandum of Understanding in order to cooperate in a collaboration:

- 1) To deliver on the land-grant mission of
 - a. providing access to high-quality education;
 - b. applying research to the needs of Kansas, the nation, and the world;

- c. extending knowledge to strengthen Kansas's economy and citizens' quality of life.
- 2) To extend the land-grant university beyond the campus borders and provide a mix of core educational programs consistent with the provisions of the Smith-Lever Act of May 8, 1914, as amended, and the Memorandum of Understanding between Kansas State University and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
- 3) To meet local needs as authorized by the Kansas County Extension Council Law, K.S.A. 2-608 through 2-622 as amended, and the Kansas Extension District Law, K.S.A. 2-623 through 2-628 as amended, and to provide for the purpose of giving instruction in agriculture, marketing, family and consumer sciences, 4-H youth development, community and resource development, and economic development to the people of the local Extension unit.

III. Agreement of Basic Principles

- 1) The collaboration between KSE and the local Extension unit unites many perspectives, understandings, experiences, and relationships to function as one system — K-State Extension — across the university, the state, and within districts and counties.
 - a. The collaboration is inclusive of the diversity of Kansas's residents.
 - b. The collaboration supports work across Kansas State University colleges and campus units to build capacity that supports efforts across the state.
 - c. Entrepreneurial collaborations with other community, county, and state agencies/organizations are encouraged, often resulting in mutual benefits.
- 2) The core purpose of the relationship is to provide research-based educational programs. To ensure that educational programs (defined as a planned series of educational events intended to meet a public need) are of the highest quality and audience appropriate:
 - a. KSE and the local Extension units will share the responsibility for assessing needs and providing curriculum-based educational programs.
 - b. Program development at all levels will follow a process based on science, using appropriate curriculum and methodologies in specific content areas, along with inclusive audience engagement strategies and practices based on adult and youth learning theories.
 - c. Equal access to Extension programs and facilities is consistent with state and federal laws and regulations, and KSE and the local Extension units shall regularly review, report, and update their policies and procedures to ensure compliance with such laws.
- 3) Because proficient employees and volunteers are crucial for success, all KSE faculty, educators, staff, local Extension unit board members, and volunteers will be provided opportunities to participate in position-related professional development.

- 4) To deliver on the mission of the organization, all parties embrace the collaboration as a system functioning simultaneously and congruently statewide and within districts and counties. For the good of the collaboration:
 - a. KSE shall require use of its brand, wordmark, and style in accordance with the KSU Division of Communication and Marketing Brand Guide. The appropriate branding should be used on the offices and buildings as well as on the local Extension unit's information and educational materials.
 - b. KSE shall provide strategies to the local Extension unit, and the local Extension unit shall make its best efforts to use such strategies, to promote and advance KSE to external partners (including private, public, and non-profit partners) about our educational mission and program impact;
 - c. KSE shall provide to the local Extension unit resources and tools (i.e., templates, worksheets) related to local Extension unit programming, finance, human resources, and policies. The local Extension unit agrees to use such resources and tools to the extent practicable.
- 5) KSE and local Extension units will follow KSE policies, as well as Kansas State University's non-discrimination policy, the Policy Prohibiting Discrimination, Harassment, Sexual Violence, Domestic and Dating Violence, and Stalking ("PPM 3010," which can be found here: <https://www.k-state.edu/policies/ppm/3000/3010.html>). This policy applies to all Extension operations, including programming, employment, and hiring. Local Extension unit board members wishing to participate in hiring decisions must complete KSE-provided training before participating. Local Extension units also agree to indemnify and hold harmless KSE and Kansas State University for any claims relating to or arising out of a local Extension unit board member's or employee's failure to follow PPM 3010.
- 6) The day-to-day activities of Local Extension unit agents will be jointly supervised by KSE and the local Extension unit governing board. The parties to this MOU shall cooperate in addressing employment-related matters, including the selection, discipline, or termination of local unit agents. The governing board may consult with and make recommendations to KSE regarding such matters, after which KSE shall carry out agreed-upon employment actions. Employment actions involving local Extension unit agents shall be subject to applicable Kansas State University employment policies and procedures.
- 7) In the event of a dispute regarding the terms and/or conditions of this agreement, KSE and the local Extension unit will work cooperatively to address such dispute.
