First Impressions was developed by the University of Wisconsin-Extension and adapted for use by K-State Research and Extension. Restructuring made possible through a partnership with the Dane G. Hansen Foundation.

A way to Boost Community Vitality

Kansas State University Agricultural Experiment Stations and Cooperative Extension Service
How it works

First Impressions allows you to see your community through the eyes of a first time visitor. A volunteer visitation team from a similar community agrees to make the visit.

This visitation team will explore your community’s residential, retail, and industrial areas; local government entities; schools; and other points of interest. Teams are trained and follow clear guidelines as they evaluate appearances, access to services; friendliness, and other community attributes.

How it helps

First Impressions increases awareness of a community’s strengths and highlights areas of concern. The program helps your community:

- Evaluate the success of current development initiatives;
- Set goals and priorities for new development;
- Identify ways to strengthen community services; and
- Identify initiatives for community support agencies, civic groups, city/county leaders, or community economic development organizations.

How results are shared

The results from the visitation team are presented at a community meeting. Community improvement opportunities are identified and utilized in community planning and improvement.

Your commitment

1) Identify a contact person from your community;
2) Gather a team of volunteers to visit another community; and
3) Organize a community-wide meeting to share the final report.

How to participate

Participation is by request. Upon acceptance into the program, a K-State Research and Extension Community Vitality Specialist will visit your community to further explain the process and identify a similar community to evaluate.

There are no fees to participate in First Impressions. Associated costs are time, mileage and meal expenses during community visits.
